IN BRIEF

Signs of heat stress

Be aware of symptoms of heat injury: Nausea, vomiting, change in mental status (acting bizarre), light-headedness, dry mouth, rapid pulse, loss of balance. In spite of the fact that the heat stress is low, it is still hot and most people are not adapted to hot climes. Protect yourself and be someone's wingman. Use sunscreen, wear a hat and most importantly drink lots of fluids. Please note that if your skin is red, that is a first degree burn and not a precursor to a tan.

Bedrock Central

Bedrock City Council will meet Apr. 28, at 9 a.m., in the 407th AEG conference room. Security Forces and Anti Terrorism will brief as well as an update on the trailer situation.

The Bedrock Health, Morale, Safety and Welfare committee meets Tuesdays at 8 a.m., in the Chapel Annex. Discussion this week will be about a sunbathing area and the Hot Spot move. This is an open forum for all interested in attending.

Infrastructure committee meeting is held Tuesdays at 2 p.m., in the 407th ECES conference room, Bldg. 630. Spring cleaning and Bedrock cleanup will be the topics of discussion.

Call 445-2237 for additional information.

Sgt. 1st Class Paul Smith, Company B, 11th Engineer Battalion, was killed on Apr. 4, 2003. His family was presented his Medal of Honor Apr. 4

Sgt. 1st Class Paul Smith receives Medal of Honor

President George W. Bush honored Sgt. 1st Class Paul R. Smith by presenting his family the Medal of Honor on Apr. 4, the second anniversary of his courageous actions during the Battle of Baghdad Airport.

Sergeant Smith is the first to receive the military's highest award for actions in support of Operation Iraqi Freedom.

In action near the Baghdad Airport on Apr. 4, 2003, Sergeant Smith, a Soldier in Company B, 11th Engineer Battalion, working with units of the 3rd Infantry Division, was tasked to build a compound to hold enemy prisoners, when his small force came under attack by more than 100 enemies.

We can't do it alone

By Lt. Col. Robert Moriarty

777th EAMX Commander

Since the 777th Expeditionary Maintenance Squadrons' arrival at Ali Base, we've overcome several obstacles and accomplished many great things. For instance, despite having half of our US C-130E aircraft grounded due to potential wing box cracks, we were still able to provide the 777th Expeditionary Airlift Squadron with enough airframes to meet their normal Air Mobility Division (AMD) requirements.

In spite of the difficulties of getting repair parts to Ali Base, we've managed to keep our MC rate well above 80 percent and on many days have been at or above 98 percent - that means that on average, the aircraft were capable of performing their mission 98 percent of the time - that's incredible.

We've also directly contributed to standing up the Iraqi Air Force, a truly historic event. I could go on but my point isn't about our accomplishments - it's about the help we receive every day - help that is critical to our success.

To put it mildly, we couldn't succeed without the help of a lot of folks representing several organizations here at Ali Base. For instance, replacement parts have been very slow arriving from the US.

Our comrades in the 407th Expeditionary Logistics Readiness Squadron have jumped through hoops to improve processes within the AOR and stateside in order to expedite the delivery of critical parts - parts that were literally grounding our aircraft. With their help, we've reduced the number of grounding parts against the aircraft from as many as 35 to a current average of 12.

That is a huge difference especially when trying to manage a small fleet where having even one aircraft broke for parts severely impacts our ability to perform the mission.

Others have been quick to lend a hand as well. The 407th Expeditionary Communications Squadron has provided hookups for computers needed to train Iraqi maintenance troops. Without the computers, the training doesn't get done; without the training, the Iraqi Air Force doesn't fly.

The 407th Expeditionary Civil Engineer Squadron built most of our current facilities; transforming a bombed out HAS into a fully functional maintenance facility and they are currently working on providing shelter for our troops; shelter that is critically needed due to the 150 to 160 degree working environment the maintainers will endure when making repairs inside the aircraft.

The 407th Expeditionary Contracting Squadron has located needed HAZMAT equipment for us, the 407th Expeditionary Services Squadron provides a wonderful gym that many of our folks have become very familiar with, PERSCO has helped us overcome our limited understanding of manning and teamed with us to build our manning documents; documents that are needed if our troops are to ever go home some day; our Chaplain assisted in getting three of our troops home on emergency leave.

Even the 777th EAS, who is really our customer, has helped by calling the Air Mobility Division to enlist their aid in helping to intelligently schedule sorties when the planes are broke.

What's the bottom line? We all have jobs we perform as part of the Ali Base team. We may not always realize why we are here, but everyone at Ali Base is important and without each of you doing what you do, ultimately the mission will be jeopardized. Thanks for all you do; you can take pride in having accomplished many great and historic events - Thanks!.....And, keep up the good work.

Thanks...

Many of you have probably already received one of these dog tags like the one on the right, but you probably didn't know how the base Chaplains here acquired them.

They were sent to us by volunteers, using donations to pay for the engraving, chain, tags and postage. They don't have any corporate, or celebrity sponsorship.

To date, they have sent out 59,000 tags! If you would like dog tags for your children, or to just thank the people who have graciously donated these wonderful gifts, contact the Chapel.

Sergeant Smith threw two grenades and fired rocket launchers at the enemy before manning a .50-caliber machine gun on an M-113 Armored Personnel Carrier to protect his troops. While engaging an enemy attacking from three sides, Sergeant Smith fired more than 300 rounds from the machinegun before being killed.

He prevented the enemy from overtaking his unit's position, protected his Task Force's flank, and defended the lives of more than 100 Soldiers, according to his award citation.

Smith was serving as a platoon sergeant in Bravo Company, 11th Engineer Battalion, Task Force 2-7, 3rd Infantry Division.

He had been serving in the Army since October 1989.

A Soldier's wife remembers

By Eric Cramer

Army News Service

Birgit Smith's husband died defending his troops in a battle outside the airport then known as Saddam Hussein International.

Two years later, she does not remember the harsh taskmaster or the tough Soldier her husband's troops knew.

"Paul was a very funny person," she said. "You could do almost anything with him and have a good time."

Born in Germany, Birgit Smith said Sergeant 1st Class Paul Smith is still her husband.

"We were married for 11 years until his death, but now it is 13. He was a great father and a devoted husband," she said.

Before he left on what became his final deployment with the 11th Engineer Battalion, Birgit said Smith was "ready."

"Before he even knew his unit was going to go, he told me that if there's any way I can get 'my boys' over there, I'm going," Birgit said. "He was ready to go and excited to go."

In the days leading up to his departure, he did not see a lot of his wife, or the two children, Jessica, 18 and David, 11.

"He was gone a lot – before they go off on his deployment they're always gone. He worked long hours making sure everything was good-to-go," Birgit said. "He always wanted to be certain everything worked to keep his boys safe."

This was not her husband's first combat experience. He fought in the Gulf War in Birgit Smith, wife of Sgt. 1st Class Paul Smith, was presented his Medal of Honor by President George W. Bush at a White House Ceremony Apr. 4.

1991. Birgit said that experience was one reason he wanted to return.

"When he came back from the Gulf War, he felt like he didn't finish the job. I think Paul was always ready – he wanted to make the change over there. He wanted to finish the job," Birgit said.

She said the action in which he was killed, and his performance in it, was natural for him. She said he probably would not have seen it as an attempt to do something heroic, but just as part of his job he needed to do well.

"What he did that day doesn't surprise me," she said. "Paul was married to the military before he was married to me, in a way, so I'm not surprised he would give himself up so his boys would come home."

Birgit said she did not recognize the magnitude of the Medal of Honor when she first found Smith had been nominated for the award.

"At the beginning, I didn't know the significance of the Medal of Honor. What he did, he would have done at any time," she said, "But now I know Paul receiving the Medal of Honor is a huge thing, a thing that makes us proud. To know that his name never dies out makes me feel very good."

She said it is her hope the country can take heart from her husband's example.

"Speaking as a military spouse, I want that America doesn't give up hope. In the media, we get to hear about the Soldiers' deaths, but we don't get to see the good things they're doing. The media doesn't always tell what Soldiers are achieving over there," Birgit said.

Fear Factor comes to Ali Base

By Master Sgt. Terry J. Nelson

407th AEG Public Affairs

There were no TV cameras and Joe Rogan wasn't the host, but Ali Base's first Fear Factor competition Saturday was as good as you would see on the NBC hit show.

The 407th Expeditionary Services Squadron sponsored the event and Staff Sgt. Daniel Erickson, 407th Expeditionary Civil Engineer Squadron's Fire Department, filled in as the host.

The competition began with six teams of three competitors, in their IPE gear, competing in a fireman's challenge. Competitors had to unroll and connect two fire hoses, connect a nozzle, knock a tennis ball off a cone with the water from the fire hose, grab a sand (women) or rock (men) filled dummy and race to the finish line. The two teams with the slowest time were eliminated.

After the first the competition, it became an individual event between the remaining 12 competitors.

The second event involved competitors weighing down a wheel barrel and pushing it through an obstacle course of cones, and sprinting to another cone, completing three revolutions around the cone with the their Kevlar helmet touching the cone. This was followed by taking a basketball from underneath the cone and successfully making a free throw. After making the free throw, competitors raced back to the starting line with the weighted wheel barrel and unloaded the weights. After unloading the weights they ran to a sand pit and low crawled on their backs to the finish line. Only the fastest times moved onto the next event.

In the third event, competitors had to drink a milk shake, which consisted of:

Fifteen packs of mustard, 6 strawberry Power Bars, 2 jars of salsa, 6 carrot cake Power Bars, 15 packs of ketchup, 10 packs of peach Crystal Light, 8 packs of spiced cider, 1 bag of marshmallows, 1 can of veggie beef soup, 3 cups of apple sauce, 1 can of salmon, 4 packs of powdered cheese, 8 chocolate milks, 8 strawberry milks, 1 meatloaf w/gravy MRE, 1 bottle of Heinz 57 Sauce, 1 can of Spam and 1 case of Red Bull.

The competitors with the four fastest times moved on to the next event.

They were First Lieutenant Tyler Lake, 407th AEG, Senior Airman George Lee Jr., 407th ESFS, Airman 1st Class Drew Weeks, 407th ELRS and Airman Christopher Muriset 407th ECES Fire Department.

In the fourth challenge, competitors were faced with eating a nasty combination of four MREs and dried squid.

Only one competitor, Senior Airman Lee, was able to eat his entire plate of food, while 1st. Lt. Lake had his milk shake and MRE/squid combination "come back up" on him, thus Airmen from the 407th Air Expeditionary Group were presented with new stripes Mar. 31, during the April enlisted promotion ceremony held at the Big Top here.

Twenty two enlisted members with promotion dates effective Apr. 1, had their new rank "tacked on" by friends and co-workers Mar. 31, as a crowd of nearly 200 people were on hand to show their support.

Promoted to Airman First Class were:

Kristal Cox, Christopher Sutton, Jake Viveiros, Joshua Hunsucker, Aaron Whitt, John Logan. Mario Garza Jr., Branden Johnson, Javier Gonzalez and Tariq Hassanali.

Promoted to Senior Airman were:

Matthew Metz, Charlton Nelson, Jeremy Roehm, Sharief Scarbriel and Matthew Wood.

Promoted to Staff Sergeant were:

Jason Gassler, Joshua Burns and Nicholas Tennin

Promoted to Technical Sergeant was:

Roland Snow

Promoted to Master Sergeant were:

Thomas Harr and Reagan Whitaker

Promoted to Senior Master Sergeant was:

eliminating him from the competition. Although Airman Weeks and Muriset didn't eat their entire plate of food they were allowed to move onto the final event due to 1st. Lt. Lake's accident.

The fifth and final event involved the final three competitors finding their color of poker chips; red, blue or black, at the bottom of coolers filled with ice and water. The competitor who found their chips the fastest won.

In the end, Senior Airman George Lee Jr., the only competitor to finish the fourth challenge, prevailed with the fastest time. Taking second was Airman Weeks followed in third by Airman Muriset.

Unfortunately, Airman Lee did not walk away with $50,000; he did however win a $100 AAFES Gift Certificate. Airman Weeks took home a $50 AAFES Gift Certificate for his second place finish.

The event would not have been possible if it hadn't been for the hard work and creative thinking of Airman 1st Class KeNoshia Whiley-Smith, 407th ESVS, and other volunteers.

Spring cleaning...

It's time for the Bedrock City's spring clean up. This month's clean up will be little different. The idea is to clean all of the old unserviceable things no longer needed out of the tents. Tent chiefs make sure you get your folks involved.

On Tuesday, plastic bags will be available from the PERSCO trailer on the south end of Bedrock. Collection points will be at all of the smoke pits.

For safety reasons, keep the collected trash in one pile at each smoke pit and at least ten feet away from the structure. Day shift can start setting out all of their bagged garbage and large items Wednesday night. Thursday morning, night shift can do the same and get all of their trash and unserviceable items set out by the smoke pits.

Thursday at 9:30 a.m. the Top Three is sponsoring a walk through and trash pickup in Bedrock, volunteers needed. At the same time CE will be coming round with the front end loader and dump truck to start hauling it all away.

Some simple rules. Do not throw away any uniform items; we have collection points for those at the Hot Spot and Chapel. Police up any trash around the outside of your tent. Also pick up any old scrap wood and pallets and set them in the piles at least 10 feet from the smoke pits. The rains should be over and old wood is an attractant for insects.

Below-the-Zone and wing award winners

By Master Sgt. Terry Nelson

407th AEG Public Affairs

The awards and promotions keep coming for members of the 407th Air Expeditionary Group.

Last month, two 407th AEG monthly award winners were recognized at the wing level. First Lieutenant Paul Cancino, 407th ELRS, was the 332nd Air Base Wing's Company Grade Officer of the Month and the 407th ECES Explosive Ordnance Disposal Team was the 332nd AEW Team of the Month.

Also, Maj. Gen. L. Dean Fox, the Air Force Civil Engineer, Headquarters U.S. Air Force, Washington, D.C, paid a visit to the 407th Expeditionary Civil Engineer Squadron Mar. 23, and presented Airman 1st Class James Moore, Jared Bennett and Robert Spence, with Senior Airman stripes under the Air Force's Below-the-Zone promotion program.

The EOD Team was also recognized as the 332nd AEW, Team of the Month.

407th AEG Warrior of the Week A1C. Andrew Williams

Unit: 407th Expeditionary Civil Engineer Sq., Force Protection

Home unit: 27th Component Maintenance Sq., Cannon AFB, NM.

Why other warriors say he's a warrior:

Airman 1st Class Andrew Williams leads by example in everything he does! From ensuring the personal safety of all military, coalition, and contract personnel daily by providing outstanding close sentry security to leading the Force Protection basketball team to victory. This Airman is responsible for ensuring Local and Third Country Nationals are closely supervised at all times and prevents them from straying away, pretty amazing when you considering he is an aircraft egress mechanic by trade. Without his flawless Force Protection mission execution the rest of us would be unable to perform our primary mission. Airman Williams is a team member on the final and most important line of defense on Ali base, Iraq, Force Protection.

Hobbies:

Basketball, softball and sports in general

Identify This

KNOW WHAT THIS IS? Each week, the "Tallil Times" staff takes a photo from around Ali Base. If you can identify the object or item, shoot us an e-mail at: tallil.times@tlab.aorcentaf.af.mil. with "Identify This" in the subject block. The winner gets their name printed in the Tallil Times. Congratulations to Staff Sgt. Jason Chrisman who was the first to correctly identify the photo in the Apr. 1, Tallil Times of a mini-LED flashlight/keychain.

From the Chapel

And they call some of these people "retarded"...

A few years ago, at the Seattle Special Olympics, nine contestants, all physically or mentally disabled, assembled at the starting line for the 100-yard dash.

At the gun, they all started out, not exactly in a dash, but a relish to run the race to the finish and win.

All, that is, except one little boy who stumbled on the asphalt, tumbled over a couple of times, and began to cry. The other eight heard the boy cry. They slowed down and looked back.

Then they all turned around and went back ... every one of them.

One girl with Downs Syndrome bent down and kissed him and said, "This will make it better."

Then all nine linked arms and walked together to the finish line. Everyone in the stadium stood, and the cheering went on for several minutes.

People who were there are still telling the story. Why? Because deep down we know this one thing:

What matters in this life is more than winning for ourselves.

What matters in this life is helping others win, even if it means slowing down and changing our course.

"A candle loses nothing by lighting another candle".
